Finding your way

Take a moment to look at our map on pages 44-45 and get familiar with the major Miami roadways. Streets and Terraces generally run east-west. Avenues, Places, Roads and Courts are aligned north-south. But look carefully in other areas that have their own street systems: Hialeah, Coral Gables, Coconut Grove, Opa Locka, Key Biscayne and Miami Beach. Miami is divided into four sections, with Flagler Street marking the north and south sectors, and Miami Avenue dividing the city into east and west.

North-South

- I-95 is the major north-south expressway that provides access all the way to South Florida, and continues all the way to north to Maine!
- U.S.1 is a main thoroughfare throughout South Florida. From downtown Miami to NE 213 St. in northern Miami-Dade County, it is called Biscayne Blvd. In parts of Broward County, it is called Federal Hwy. Going south, U.S.1 continues to the Florida Keys.
- Florida's Turnpike extends north to Orlando and Central Florida from State Road 836 in the southwest part of Miami. The Homestead Extension of the Turnpike is located in the western part of the county and continues south until it merges with U.S.1 in Homestead. This is a toll road.
- From Kendall to the northern part of Miami, State Road 826 (Palmetto Expressway) runs north-south, then runs east-west, connecting with I-95 at the Golden Glades Interchange in North Miami.
- A1A (Collins Avenue in Miami Beach) runs north-south for 52 miles, paralleling Florida's beaches along the east coast.

East-West

- State Road 836 (Dolphin Expressway) is the major east-west expressway connecting Florida's Turnpike (Homestead Extension) to State Road 826, I-95 and Miami Beach via I-395. Toll: $1.25 eastbound; $1 with SunPass.
- State Road 112 leads to/from Miami Int'l Airport, to/from I-95, and to Miami Beach via I-95. Toll: $1.25 eastbound; $1 with SunPass.
- State Road 826 (Palmetto Expressway) runs east-west, connects with I-95 and continues east to the beaches.
- Gratigny Parkway runs east-west between the Palmetto Expressway and NW 32 Ave. Toll: $1.25; $1 with SunPass.
- Eight causeways link the mainland and the beaches:
 - Rickenbacker to/from Key Biscayne; Toll: $1.50
 - I-395 (MacArthur Causeway) to/from 5 Street
 - Venetian Causeway to Dade Blvd.; Toll: $1.50
 - I-195 (Julia Tuttle Causeway) to/from 41 Street
 - Kennedy Causeway to/from 79 Street
 - Broad Causeway to/from Bay Harbor and Bal Harbour; Toll: $1
 - Sunny Isles Causeway to/from 163 Street
 - William Lehman Causeway to/from 192 Street

Metrobus provides daily bus service throughout Miami-Dade County. Service is available from Miami Beach and Key Biscayne on the east side of the county, to Kendall and Westchester on the west end, and from as far north as the city of Hallandale Beach in Broward County, to as far south as Homestead, Florida City, and the middle Florida Keys. Metrobus operates seven days a week. Several routes run 24 hours a day. The system, designed to intersect with Metrorail and Metromover, serves all major businesses, shopping, entertainment and cultural centers, major hospitals and schools. All buses are wheelchair-accessible. Metrobus fare: $2 each way. Bus to bus transfers are free with the EASY Card or EASY Ticket. Metrobus fareboxes accept cash.

For express bus service from the Miami International Airport to Miami Beach at a bargain price, check out the Airport Flyer, Bus Route 150, which departs from the bus bay area of the Miami International Airport Metrorail station, and runs daily from 6am-11:30pm. For only $2.35 each way, this express service offers free Wi-Fi for the ride and plenty of space for luggage.

On Miami Beach, try the South Beach Local, Bus Route 123, for an easy way to get around for only 25¢. It runs every 13-20 minutes daily. See page 46 for routes and schedule.

Metrorail, Miami-Dade County's 24.4-mile, elevated rapid-transit system, runs from the Kendall area in the southern end of the county north to the city of Medley. Its 23 stations provide a connection to major businesses, as well as cultural and shopping centers. Transit riders also can transfer to Tri-Rail at the Tri-Rail Metrorail station to travel north to Broward and Palm Beach Counties. Metrorail riders must use an EASY Card or EASY Ticket, as the faregates do not accept cash. All Metrorail trains have free Wi-Fi.

Metrorail operates daily, 5am-midnight. On weekdays, trains arrive approximately every 10 minutes during rush hours, every 15 minutes at midday, and every 30 minutes from about 7pm-midnight. On weekends, trains run approximately every 30 minutes. Parking is available at 16 stations for $4 daily, including weekends and holidays. Metrorail fare: $2 per trip. An EASY Card or EASY Ticket is required to ride the Metrorail.

The Metrorail Orange Line refers to those Metrorail trains that travel to the new Miami International Airport Metrorail station. It provides direct access from the airport to downtown Miami as well as greater connectivity between various modes of transit throughout Miami-Dade County, including the airport's Rental Car Center. Trains arrive approximately every 10 minutes during rush hours, every 15 minutes at midday, and every 30 minutes from about 7pm-midnight. With the opening of this line in July 2012, Miami joined the ranks of other major metropolitan areas around the world with rapid transit connections to their airports!

Metromover is an automated people-mover system that serves downtown Miami from Omni to Brickell, and connects with Metrorail at Government Center and Brickell stations. It connects with Metrobus at the

Transportation

Omni, Government Center and Brickell stations. In addition, several bus routes operate close to most of the 20 Metromover stations, one about every two blocks. Metromover's inner and outer (Omni and Brickell) loops run from 5am to midnight, seven days a week. Trains arrive frequently. Service may be extended during special events. Metromover fare: free.

The EASY Card is a durable, plastic, reloadable card that allows for the purchase of one-day, seven-day or monthly fare amounts, or just a fixed amount of cash. It is good for three years, and balance protection is available in case of loss or theft. The card has an initial $2 charge. Purchase by calling the EASY Card Center at 786-469-5151 (TTY: 305-468-5402). The EASY Ticket is also reloadable, but expires after 60 days from the date of purchase. The EASY Ticket cannot be purchased or reloaded online or by phone. The 7 Day Pass, which can be added to an EASY Card or an EASY Ticket, offers unlimited access to all Miami-Dade County public transportation for seven consecutive days for $26.

For detailed information and schedules, call 305-891-3131 or 311 (TTY: 305-499-8971) or visit www.miamidade.gov/transit

Tri-Rail is the commuter rail system that links Miami-Dade, Broward and Palm Beach Counties, providing free connecting shuttles to/from all three airports. Passengers must have an EASY Card loaded with the appropriate fare or a valid paper ticket prior to boarding the train. Shuttles depart from:

- Miami International: Lower level, Concourse E
- Fort Lauderdale/Hollywood International: Lower level, Terminals 1-4
- Palm Beach International: Palm Tran bus #44, in front of Baggage Claim

Cost is $4.40-$11.55/person, round trip; $2.50-$6.90/person one way; weekend and holiday, $5/person, $2.50 for children 5-12, seniors 65 and older; and students with ID. Info at 1-800-874-7245. www.tri-rail.com

SunPass offers a convenient, pre-paid option for most tolls in Florida, at a discounted rate. It is required to use the new Express Lanes (the two left lanes) on I-95 in Miami-Dade County, both north and southbound. All tolls going from Miami-Dade County south to the Florida Keys are SunPass ONLY. No cash lanes are available. SunPass is already in most rental cars and taxis, and is available for sale online and at Publix, CVS and Florida Turnpike plazas. Coconut Grove

Years ago, "The Grove" was known as an artists' colony. Though it still maintains that casual feeling, it has grown into a sophisticated area, set against a beautiful subtropical backdrop of banyan trees, vivid bougainvillea and palm trees. Coconut Grove is populated by one-of-a-kind boutiques, shopping and entertainment centers, lively outdoor cafés and special events, as well as picturesque parks and waterfront. It's a natural environment surrounding an oasis of excitement!

Historic sites include Miami City Hall (3500 Pan American Dr., Map K-8), which began as an aviation training base for the U.S. Navy during WWI. Later, it became the operations base for Pan American Airlines. In 1954, it became Miami's City Hall. The Barnacle Historic State Park (3485 Main Hwy., 305-442-6866, Map K-8, Open Fri.-Mon., 9am-5pm) is the 121-year-old home of Commodore Ralph Munroe, a Coconut Grove pioneer. A stroll along Main Highway and the side streets offers great boutiques and restaurants. CocoWalk (3015 Grand Ave., 305-444-0777, Map K-8), is a bustling open-air shopping and entertainment center with a Mediterranean ambiance and live entertainment. Shoppes at Mayfair in The Grove (2900 Grand Ave., 305-448-1700, Map K-8), offers shopping and an indoor antique market on the weekends in a splendid environment. The Grove's lively and romantic sidewalk cafés invite visitors to be part of Miami's hottest people-watching scenes. Sip a mojito and enjoy the view in this see-and-be-seen scene! The Grove hosts many festivals, including the Coconut Grove Arts Festival (February), Women's International Film Festival (March), Great Taste of the Grove (April), Miami/Bahamas Goombay Festival (June), The Great Grove Bed Race (September), Grovetoberfest (October), Mad Hatter Art Festival (November) and King Mango Strut (December). For outdoor fun and beautiful views, the Grove's lovely walking waterfront parks, marinas and sailing and yacht clubs, which host yearly sailboat races and international regattas, are unmatched. For more information, please call the Coconut Grove Business Improvement District at 305-461-5506. www.coconutgrove.com

Miami's Fantastic Firsts

- Miami is the first and only major city in the U.S. conceived by a woman, Julia Tuttle, who is regarded as the "mother of Miami."
- The first photo-finish capability for deciding the winner of a horse race was installed at Hialeah Racetrack in 1936.
- Miami's Virginia Miller Art Gallery made international history in 1991 when it became the first art gallery to photograph visitors using a Canon digital camera, which was developed for use in the Persian Gulf War. Those pictures were manipulated and then printed using a Canon color bubble jet printer, making it the first gallery ever to use digital art!
- The University of Miami Hurricanes are the first ever NCAA team to win more than 50 home games in a row. Their 58 game winning streak is a record that still stands in the NCAA.
- The Miami Dolphins are the first, and so far the only, National Football League team to have a perfect season. In 1972, the Dolphins went 16-0 ... and won the Super Bowl!
- Miami-based Pan American Airlines was the first international airline in the U.S. Pan Am was also the first airline to provide economy class service at a reduced rate to make mass air travel a reality. The globe from Pan Am's headquarters can still be seen in the lobby of the Miami Science Museum.
- In 1920, Miami resident Arthur Wynne, formerly from New Jersey, invented the crossword puzzle to entertain his children.

Florida Keys

Home to America's only living barrier coral reef, the Florida Keys stretch more than 200 miles; beginning with Virginia Key near Miami, and ending with the uninhabited Dry Tortugas.

In between is a chain of islands populated by equally colorful people, flora and fauna. To live in the Keys is to be a character – in the best way possible. Artists, musicians, fishermen and writers, from the famous to the infamous, have made their homes in the Florida Keys.

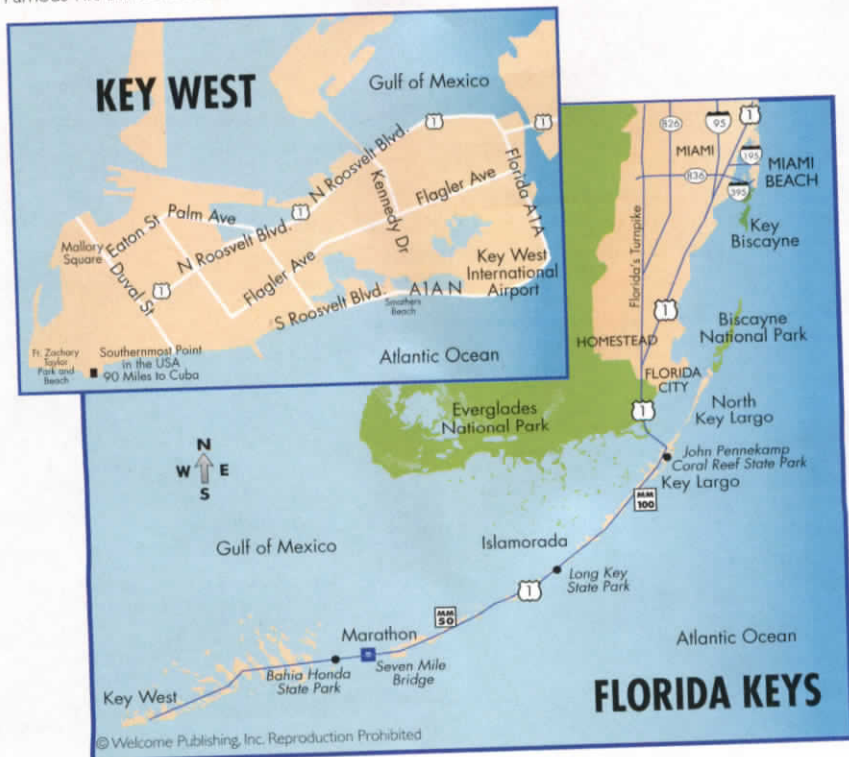

Key Largo, the largest of the Keys, is famous for the 1948 movie of the same name, starring Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall. Key Largo has beautiful resorts and is close to both John Pennnekamp Coral Reef State Park and the Everglades, making it an ideal spot for those who want to kayak and scuba dive.

Moving south, Islamorada, known as the "Sport Fishing Capital of the World," is the perfect place to launch a sport fishing trip and take advantage of the plentiful game fish off its shores. The less energetic may choose just to loaf at the World Famous Tiki Bar at Postcard Inn Beach Resort and Marina at Holiday Isle (Mile Marker 84), self-proclaimed home to the Rum Runner cocktail.

No visit to the Keys is complete without venturing ALL the way down US 1 to Key West. With Ernest Hemingway's six-toed cats, the Mel Fisher Maritime Heritage Museum (complete with treasure from sunken ships!), the Southernmost Point in the U.S., the adventures of Duval Street nightlife and more, Key West is not to be missed! Key West offers plentiful opportunities to dive, snorkel, sail and laze around too. Key West is also home to both the southernmost winery and the southernmost brewery in the United States. Watch the sun rise on one side of Key West and watch the sun set on the other – and there's a lot to do in between.

Throughout the Keys, great food, often featuring fresh local seafood, abounds. Don't miss the state parks, campgrounds and these points of interest as well: Theater of the Sea (Mile Marker 84.5), Crane Point Museum & Nature Center (Mile Marker 50) or Bahia Honda State Park (Mile Marker 37).

Safe Sunning Tips

South Florida's sun is inviting, but it's easy to get too much of a good thing. Here are some tips to help you enjoy the sun without getting burned. These guidelines are based on a scale that assigns a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) to measure the degree to which a substance will block the ultraviolet rays that cause sunburn. It is important to use a sunscreen that blocks UVA and UVB rays.

- If fair-skinned or prone to burning, use a sunscreen with a high SPF rating (at least 30). Even if you are tan, protection is still necessary. The SPF rating should vary according to skin type.
- The sun is strongest between 11am and 3pm, but burning can occur even in the early morning or late afternoon hours, especially during the summer. Extra protection is needed for peak hours.

- Even on overcast days or in the shade, the sun's rays can still burn. Protection is advised.
- The sun's rays reflect off water, increasing sun exposure. When swimming, choose a waterproof sunscreen that retains its SPF level even after 90-minutes in the water.
- Children are more vulnerable to damage from the sun, so they need a waterproof sunscreen with a higher SPF.
- Stay hydrated while at the beach; saltwater leeches moisture from skin. Drink plenty of water to replenish fluids, even if you're not sweating, thirsty or hot.

Swimming Safety

The Miami Beach Patrol offers these tips:

- Always swim in a guarded area. Stay within the swim area boundaries. Don't swim where surfers are active.
- Pay attention to posted flags. (Please refer to "Florida's Statewide Beach Warning Flags.")
- Rip currents or riptides are strong currents that can carry even the most experienced swimmer out to sea. If you get caught in a rip current, don't panic. Swim parallel to the shoreline (along the shore) until you're out of the rip current's influence. Then swim in toward shore.

Florida's Statewide Beach Warning Flags

The following information is posted on flags at all lifeguard towers.

- Red with a line crossing out a swimmer: The water is closed to the public.
- Red: High Hazard = High surf and/or strong currents
- Yellow: Medium Hazard = Moderate surf and/or currents
- Green: Low Hazard = Calm conditions, but still exercise caution
- Purple: Dangerous Marine Life (likely Man o' War or jellyfish)

Watersports Guide

Swim. Snorkel. Dive. Float. Fish. Fly! Soar above the water suspended by a parachute. Plunge below the surface and explore natural and artificial reefs, or catch your own dinner!

While Miami and Miami Beach are recognized for their nightlife and international cuisine, there is partying and feasting of a different sort taking place on and below the surface of our tropical waters! A dramatic yet peaceful underwater world patiently awaits its visitors: a world thriving with colorful marine life that frequently contrasts with the stillness of artificial reefs in and around which they so often congregate.

In 1981, Miami-Dade County initiated an artificial reef program, and in 1998, established the South Beach Underwater Park, located 200 yards east of the beach between 1st and 5th Streets. The purpose was to expand the fish habitat while providing near-shore snorkeling and diving opportunities. One such opportunity, a 22-ton concrete margarita bar rests in 20-feet of water, 100 yards east of Nikki Beach Club.

Deep sea fishing opportunities abound in Miami. Hire a charter boat and venture out into the open ocean to catch everything from marlin to mahi mahi and swordfish to snapper!

Scuba divers have a variety of sites in deeper water, from the Tortuga, an intact freighter sitting upright in 110-feet of water to a pair of army tanks sitting in less than 50-feet of water east of the Fontainebleau hotel on 44th Street.

Underwater Miami lives up to its reputation as the "Wreck-reational Capital of the World!"

The surface also provides water recreation: Parasail from several locations along the beach or try a ride on an inflatable banana boat towed by a jet ski.

If tranquility and personal power are more your style, single or double kayaks and canoes are available from various watersports rental locations along the beach and bay.

Power boat rentals and tours are available. The roar of the engines, the wind in your face, the warmth of the sun come together for an exciting adventure.

If the wind is your choice of power, Miami is one of the best places in the world to sail. South Biscayne Bay (Biscayne National Park) is a protected body of water that is home to the only living tropical reef in the continental United States.

For many years, LGBT travelers have selected Miami and Miami Beach as their destinations of choice. And now that the LGBT Visitor Center, sponsored by MetLife, is open, it is just one more reason to visit! Whether you are here for one of the many fabulous LGBT events that take place annually, or you simply choose to spend your vacation time in South Florida, the LGBT Visitor Center can assist you in making the most of your stay.

Located conveniently in the historic Old City Hall building at 1130 Washington Avenue, the Visitor Center is your one-stop destination for information, publications, free wireless internet access and LGBT activities and weekly community events. The LGBT Visitor Center can also assist with any last minute needs such as hotel and excursion reservations, dining and attraction recommendations, as well as being a community resource to assist you during your "fun-cation."

The center is funded and operated by the MDGLCC Foundation, Inc., the nonprofit arm of the Miami Dade Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce. Speaking on behalf of the membership and board, which includes restaurants, nightclubs, realtors, retail operators, municipalities and more, we want to welcome you to Miami-Dade County. Stop by the Visitor Center and pick-up a copy of our membership directory. At the Chamber we promote "S.O.M.A.," which means Support Our Members Always, and we hope you will too!

For more detailed information on where the LGBT traveler is welcome, visit our website at www.gogaymiami.com or please visit the LGBT Visitor Center:

South Florida Food Primer

The food of South Florida is like nowhere else! It is a wonderful mix of the foreign and the familiar, the magical and the mundane, and there is something for everyone here. Known as “Floribbean,” this flavorful combination of Cuban, Southern United States, Spanish and other Caribbean flavors, characterized by lots of seafood, tropical fruits and spices, make up the cuisine in the Melting Pot city of Miami! The lists below give some information about the unique ingredients that go into the food here, and give it that unique Miami spice.

•Rice & Beans: Whether it is white rice or yellow rice (which gets its color from saffron, the world’s most expensive spice), rice is a staple in Floribbean cooking. It is frequently served with black beans (Cuban), pigeon peas (Jamaican) or red beans (Cajun, other Caribbean). Together, rice and beans are a complete protein – and a delicious one from the stock, onions, garlic and chilies usually simmered into the beans.

•Stone Crabs: Native to the waters around Florida, stone crabs are a delicacy only available from October to May. Fishermen remove one claw from the crab and return it to the water. The claw will regenerate to full size in about a year. Claws are usually served chilled, often with a mustard sauce. Stone crab claws were first successfully prepared on Miami Beach at the world famous Joe’s Stone Crab.

•Citrus: Citrus fruits, including Key limes, oranges, tangerines, lemons and others, show up across South Florida in salads, sauces, marinades and more. Mojo Criollo, an essential Cuban marinade, is made from a zesty blend of garlic, onion and citrus fruits.

•Grouper & Snapper: These native fish are essential to true South Florida cuisine. Depending on the restaurant, they are fried, broiled, baked, grilled or sautéed, and they appear on a multitude of menus.

•Dolphin: It’s not Flipper! Also known as mahi mahi or dorado, dolphin are a beautiful fish that also taste wonderful. Many area restaurants have adapted and changed the name for visitors, but there are holdouts which still list mahi mahi as dolphin. (Flipper and his cousins are really porpoises, not dolphins!)

•Mango: Mangos are everywhere in South Florida! There is even an annual International Mango Festival held here. Originally from India, mangos have spread all over the world’s tropics. Besides eaten fresh, mangos have found their way into chutneys, salsas, salads, cooked dishes, and even barbecue sauces.

•Yuca: This fibrous root vegetable is often served battered and fried, like a thick French fry, or boiled and doused with garlic sauce.

•Avocado: Native Florida avocados are much larger than their California cousins, called Hass avocados, and have smooth skins instead of pebbled ones. They also stay bright green when ripe. They have a much higher water content than Hass avocados and are therefore lower in fat. They are wonderful raw on sandwiches and in salads, but do not make great guacamole! Florida avocados are also known as alligator pears.

•Plantains: This banana variety is not sweet when it is still green. Green plantains, called tostones, are often served deep fried as chips or fritters and served as a side dish. Their sweet, ripe counterparts, maduros, are usually pan-fried to caramelize them and eaten as a dessert, side dish or snack.

•Empanadas: There are as many kinds of empanadas, little turnovers, as there are islands in the Caribbean. Chicken, beef, veggie, spicy or mild, there are dozens. Try them from a street vendor – just like a hot dog in New York.

Floribbean food is much more than what is above. Enjoy and experiment! There’s nothing else like it in the world.

Welcoming Disabled Visitors to The Magic City

I knew Miami Beach was a very special place the first time I visited eight years ago. In addition to its beautiful surroundings, I experienced freedom in a way I hadn't since becoming disabled.

Leaving my hotel unescorted, with book in hand and thoughts of an espresso milling around my brain, I was overcome with a sense of joy for the long lost autonomy I was experiencing. I ventured up Miami Beach's famous Collins Avenue in my wheelchair and everything appeared more beautiful as I realized streets could be easily crossed because of predictable and uniform ramping, audible pedestrian signals and plentiful accessible bathrooms!

One of the main reasons visitors come to Miami is to enjoy the beautiful beaches. Those of us who depend on a wheelchair for mobility, know they don't move too well in sand. Check with your hotel concierge who may be able to provide you with the rental of a beach wheelchair specifically designed for our sandy beaches. You can also contact DMR (305-666-9911; please see page 18 for additional information) if you'd like to purchase or rent a beach wheelchair. At no additional charge, they can provide transportation from the Airport directly to DMR, and then to your hotel. Their specialized concierge service can even assist you with Accessible Accommodations, doctor's appointments, dining, shopping and sightseeing!

There is truly something for everyone in Miami, and a plethora of activities are available to those of varied physical abilities. The outdoors and watersports make the most of Miami's beautiful surrounding waters, and some activities are even suited to the disabled traveler.

At Shake-A-Leg Miami (2620 S. Bayshore Dr., Coconut Grove, 305-858-5550, Map K-8), the world's premier adaptive and community watersports center, experience the magic of Biscayne Bay on a kayak, stand up paddle board, sailboat, powerboat, and more! (No prior boating skills required.) Fishing trips can also be arranged, or bring a picnic and enjoy a waterfront view on the deck, dock or nearby island.

Programs are available for children and adults with physical and developmental challenges; liberating them from the realm of imagination, into the realm of experience! Shake-A-Leg Miami is South Florida's "Gateway to Biscayne Bay."

By Helen Condzal Swartz, M. Ed.

Even on land Miami has so much to offer, which is why more than 50 percent of visitors return!

This world class city has many venues for fine and performing arts, and hosts one of the two Art Basel events in the world. The Design District and Wynwood neighborhoods and ArtCenter/South Florida (800 Lincoln Rd., Miami Beach, Map I-13) have ongoing art events and shows featuring different themes from local, national and international artists.

The city of Miami itself hosts the exciting South Beach Food and Wine Festival (February), and the Miami International Film Festival (March) affords many opportunities to see unique films and attend question and answer sessions with actors, producers and directors.

Much awareness has been brought about in recent years by a citywide event called Ability Explosion, a weeklong event in October featuring "Dining in the Dark" as one of its most popular events. In addition, almost every restaurant in Miami Beach is accessible for wheelchair use and many have a heightened awareness of the obstacles faced by those with vision limitations.

Miami-Dade County Public Transit buses are available to take visitors around Miami Beach, downtown and to/from the airport. Simply dial 311 (TTY: 305-499-8971) to speak to a live assistant who can explain bus routes and times. A helpful, and free, iPhone, iPad and Android app called "Miami-Dade Transit Tracker" also provides bus routes, stops and times. Additional information about Miami's public transportation can be found on pages 42-43.

I believe that Miami's accessibility is the result of ongoing concern and deliberate planning by city government. The city has an abundance of beautiful and accessible public space, including an ocean walkway that goes north from South Pointe Park past 41st Street. I live in what has been called one of the most accessible cities in the U.S.!

GO WILD In Florida

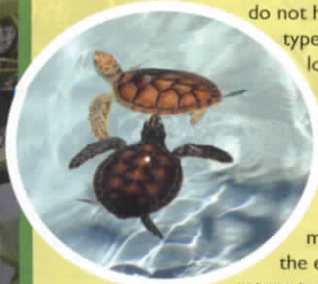

Florida's variety of wildlife is majestic and vital to the health of its delicate ecosystem. The Everglades and the reefs along the coast are home to many interesting species; Florida is also the winter home to almost every kind of bird on the eastern seaboard. See below for descriptions of just some of the animals that call Florida home!

Alligators are important to the Everglades for many reasons, including controlling the rodent population and keeping the wetlands wet during the dry season, thanks to the water that is stored in their gator holes. Male alligators tend to be about 14 feet long, while females are closer to 10 feet when fully grown. Although alligators were endangered at one time due to over-hunting for their hides, there are more than a million of them in Florida today! While alligators are in almost every inland body of water in Florida, the best place to see them is Everglades National Park.

Three main varieties of Sea Turtles nest in Florida: green sea turtles, leatherbacks (which, as the name implies, do not have a boney-type shell) and loggerheads.

All three are endangered species. Sea turtles navigate by using the magnetism of the earth; females return to the nesting grounds where they were born year after year. Florida is, in fact, home to the largest nesting ground for loggerheads in the U.S.!

Sea turtles can live to be 80-years-old. The biggest threat from humans to sea turtles are destruction of their nesting grounds, their entanglement in fishing nets and floating garbage, such as balloons and soda six-pack rings.

Sailfish are one of the most sought after game fish in the world, and can be found in plentiful numbers at the edge of the Gulf Stream right here in South Florida throughout the winter months. Characterized by its large dorsal fin and elongated bill, the sailfish is capable of powerful runs, acrobatic jumps and reel-blistering dives, which may make your arms regret ever being tangled with this great fish!

Manatees are gentle giants which can be seen grazing on plant life in the canals and mangrove hammocks of South Florida. Distantly related to elephants, manatees can weigh up to 1,800 pounds, their newborn calves even weighing about 65 pounds! Like whales, they surface for air about every 20 minutes. Half their time is spent asleep, and their very slow metabolisms keep manatees in warm areas. Manatees are absolutely no threat to humans, and are in fact curious and friendly, but humans, especially in propeller driven boats, have harmed countless manatees. Of all the manatee deaths reported as caused by humans in Florida, the majority involved boats, so please be watchful for manatees while out on the water.
